Mr. Farolero Is Fined For Speeding His Car

Both Farolero, a resident of Las Vegas, and W. W. McMillen for speeding on south Third street in dangerous proximity to a moving street car, were fined $10. Farolero, who was arrested on the complaint of J. D. Baskin, was accompanied by two girls who said they worked in a dance hall at the New Mexico saloon. All testified that they were traveling at a rate not more than ten miles an hour. Both testified that they were going at about thirty miles.

The present prosperity of the whole eastern New Mexico, Mr. Fox believes, rests on the success of the stock growers. They and their enterprises have saved the situation for the dry farming sections and have done much to aid the settlers.

Very elaborate preparation will be made during the next sixty days for the state fair commission to care for the livestock exhibited. More buttered数字 are to be offered and because of the increased number of animals on display and the more active interest of southeastern stockmen in great livestock attendance attracted directly to the livestock display will be much larger than ever before.
